Some Ranches Face Inspection Due To Cattle Tick Find

Manager George C. Young of the Glades Livestock Market here spoke out this week to calm cattlemen's unrest concerning the discovery of ticks in the state of a variety of cattle ticks. Some individual ranches in this area have been quarantined here until the ticks can be inspected. Some of the animals were purchased from a tick area, Young said.

Techniques of controlling the tick have been worked out so that a minimum of inconvenience will result to even the quarantined areas," he said. "The state livestock board has kept a tick crew in the field continuously since 1945."

Because most of the cattle in question purchased through the livestock market here were dipped, there is little chance of finding ticks from that source. Young said Dr. Campbell of the livestock board assures us that a dipped animal is a clean animal because no eggs or young ticks can exist on an animal.

The tick itself does not affect the animal, he went on, but more than any other blood sucking insect. The danger lies in the fact that the tick would be a carrier of the disease should it go up where the fever tick exists. No tropical fever has been reported to exist here since the mid 1930's.

JOB and WORKER

J. W. Mosley, Jr., Representative Florida State Employment Service

Quotable Quote . . . Mr. Don Lavin who is National Head of Farm Placement Division of the Employment Service made the following statement at a conference recently:

"Our task is two-fold. First, we must give all possible assistance to farm employers who ask for help. Second, at the same time, we must provide every assistance we can to the domestic farm worker who applies to us for a job. In doing this, it is essential that we have a complete knowledge of the farm."

Lone Bandit Gets $15,000 From Firm In Pahokee Friday

Pahokee police are without traces of a lone bandit who robbed a firm in Pahokee Friday evening. The bandit walked into the office at 147 S. Lake Ave. there and demanded the money from the company safe. The bandit confronted W. E. Blackwell, a bookkeeper, as he was making up the payroll. The thief also ordered Blackwell to get out of the office. He put the money in a cloth sack which may have been a pillow case. The bandit fled in a car which could not be completely identified.

Blackwell's description of the bandit given to police officers is as follows:

White male, approximately 35 or 40 years of age. At the time he was wearing dark jeans, tan trousers, believed to be khaki—and an off-color yellow shirt.

Pahokee Police Chief Leon Guthrie said over 100 pay envelopes were taken and that anyone finding any Vandergrift-Williams envelopes should notify authorities immediately.

Roadblocks were thrown up along all roads leading out of that city with no result. County officials and the Belle Glade Police Department are cooperating in the search.

The same office was held up nearly two years ago, authorities said.

Local Prison Farm Helps Feed Other Fla. Institutions

Taking advantage of the subtropical climate and the bounty of agricultural effort in the mucklands, the Glades State Prison Farm at Belle Glade produces beef, poultry, milk, fruit, and vegetables and sugar to assure the 580 inmates here of nutritious, appetizing and substantial food.

The Glades institution also "sweetens the tooth" for other state institutions including Broward and white sugar and molasses, canned beans and tomatoes are "sold" to other institutions by the thousands of cans, dry beans are shipped by the truckloads to Chattahoochee, Arcadia, Tallahassee and other groups of state wards.

Beef, to the tune of $45,000 worth was furnished the past year for other than the local group of inmates.

Altogether, some $212,365 in value of canned beans and molasses, sugar and syrup, dry beans and beef were sold to other state institutions by the Glades Prison Farm.

In addition, the local institution produced all of its own meat except processed, and includes beef, pork, chicken, turkey and ducks, together with fresh eggs, whole milk and citrus in season. Fresh green vegetables are available eight of the twelve months.

A check at the local institution shows that the inmates get eggs every day; they consume a hundred gallons of milk per day and they get "white bread"—biscuits or loaf bread—twice.

Three FCD Pumping Stations Started

Three pumping stations began operating Sunday morning bringing down the level of canals in Palm Beach and Broward counties, according to B. Arnold, general manager of Central and Southern Flood Control District.

Arnold said although rains have raised the canal levels, the situation is not alarming.

The Lake Okechobee area got lighter rain than that area between here and the coast.

Station S-4 on the Hillsborough Canal and S-4-A on the West Palm Beach Canal are pumping water into that area. Station S-9 on the South New River Canal in the Davie area is pumping water into area three.

If the rains continue the situation is not alarming.

Weather May Put Slump In Market

Weather continues to be the determining factor in the race for the harvest and in the Glades. Bean supplies were liberal despite the rain and corn supplies were better than normal.

Supplies of celery, escarole and radishes were moderate when weather was better. Light states Fred Tuttle, manager of the Federal-State Market News Service, said his warehouse is full of celery, escarole and radishes. The demand for celery, corn, endive and radishes was good this week while beans and escarole were moderate. Field peas had a fair demand while most leaf items remained in light demand.

Prices ranged moderate to low on all items. Rail, truck and mixed load movement averaged 188 cars per day.

Henry Hugh Hart, Jr., six year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Henry Hart, Sr. of South Bay, was struck and killed as he and two other boys waited for a school bus.

One of the two boys, 14 year old Wendell Rhodes, son of Mr. and Mrs. R. B. Rhodes of South Bay, was critically injured.

A six man coroner's jury ruled Thursday night that the Hart youth was killed by an unavoidable accident due to mechanical failure of the truck's brakes.

Assistant County Solicitor Harry Michaels and Coroner Joseph R. Cherry conducted the hearing.

The truck driver, Edward James Smith, 27, an employee for James Summerlin, maintained at the hearing that he was trying to hit a truck stopped in front of him and when he applied pressure to the brakes, the truck did not stop and the pedal went to the floor.

The truck, a 1951 Ford, dumped part of its crates and ran over the cafe before stopping nearly 25 yards from the cafe. Members of the jury which met this morning in a test. The jury was composed of Frank Wilson, foreman, Kenneth Warren, O. H. Martin, Mead Willis, Aubrey Farmer and Louis Lowery.

Smith first claimed that he was not driving the truck. He told police that a man known only as John Henry was driving; however, County Investigator John Hatt later learned that Smith had been driving.

Smith then complained that the truck had no brakes. Hatt said he had been in the truck when it was driven. The brakes were defective.

The Rhodes boy was admitted to Belle Glade Hospital after suffering from a fractured arm.

DEAR SUBSCRIBER:

If you're among those still waiting for a Globe on our Special Subscription Offer — here's the reason — we're waiting too!

ABOUT THOSE GLOBES . . .

Dear Mr. Publisher:

We are slowly going mad over the GLOBE situation. Here we have promised you, and many other publishers that we would ship globes by the 10th of March, and we haven't got them yet. We made that promise after receiving written assurance from the factory which makes them that we would have them by that time. Now they tell us that due to mechanical difficulties in making improvements in the Globe, they can't guarantee shipment until the 10th of April.

We would change to another globe-maker, but there isn't one we can find that can make nearly as good a globe for the price. So, all we can do is to ask you to be more patient than we are able to be — and to assure you that we will notify you the moment the new globes are ready.

A Night In Meyer's Hotel

It was, as you will recall, in December of 1923 that the first of course, was when the road from West Palm Beach to Belle Glade, Conners Highway was not opened until the following year. With the road came new settlers, and hundreds of sportsmen. In order to accommodate these, great as well as an occasional salesman or land seeker, Mr. Meyer constructed a small story hotel. It was located on his farm just east of the present Main Highway, this was the terminus of the highway. This was the same Mr. Meyer who today, at the age of 83, is skillfully fabricating furniture in his shop in South Bay, and who formerly had a similar plant in Moore Haven.

It was also during this period that the state was erecting the first lake shore levee at the same levee which twice collapsed in 1928. At the time, the writer was operating a floating dredge on this dyke construction, and having just made a trip to West Palm Beach and returned, Meyer made a trip to get accommodations at the new hotel, which, with a couple of stores, constituted the business section of Belle Glade.

As this was during the duck hunting season, the hotel was filled. In fact, there appeared to be more customers than there were beds, but that, as it developed, was of small consequence. The guests, among who were several ladies, were eating supper, and were being busily served in the dining room. After eating, some tarried in the lobby for a little desultory conversation, but before long nearly every one had drifted upstairs. "You are in Number 2," Mr. Meyer informed me, "and you don't need a key. We've got nothing but honest people out here!" Upon ascending the stairs, I found the key to the room. No key. There were no keys anywhere! An aisle ran the length of the upper floor, flanked on each side by a six foot high partition. Upon entering the door marked 2, I surveyed the room. It appeared to be quite an improvement on the hotel in the Canal Point, in which the sleeping rooms on the hotel in blankets hung from frames. Here they were separated by walls of wood. What matter if they were only a half inch thick and with the studding exposed? The ceiling was of chicken wire, which on top the partitions, thus encouraging ventilation and providing an unobstructed vista of the roof rafters above. The whole was somewhat reminiscent of the architecture of a bath house.

Shedding my outer clothing, I composed myself to what I fondly supposed would be a night of slumber. However, it presently developed that in the adjoining room, or rather more properly, booth, there were a couple of ladies. They appeared to be in a conversational mood, and as women will, soon fell to discussing various topics. The frail and rosy-faced woman, then their respective husbands. The frail and rosy-faced woman, then their respective husbands. The frail and rosy-faced woman, then their respective husbands.

It developed that both the ladies came from near Miami, that they had not previously been acquainted, that one of the husbands was in construction work, and further, that neither of the ladies had any children, but both had sisters and neighbors who did, and this topic was good for half an hour's conversation. Before the evening was over I felt quite well acquainted with them both.

Meanwhile, and as a sort of background to the chatter of these ladies, there emanated from the rear of the hall the rumble of masculine voices indicative of several poker games in progress, and punctuated by occasional exclamations of "I'll raise another quarter," "Queens back to back," "four kings takes it," "pass the bottle," etc., ad infinitum.

Falling asleep, I awoke from pure exhaustion. I was awakened after what seemed only a couple of hours, by a clomp, clomp, clomp of heavy boots in the aisle. This was followed immediately by a raucous "Quack! quack! quack!" from a hunter in the rear, and echoed here by the ear-splitting "pop! pop!" of the shotgun. The clatter and rumble of awakening sportsmen as they dressed and collected their equipment, thumped along the corridor and resounded in the wooden stairs. Finally, of course, came the sound of the door opening, and the quiet of the winter night shattered by the ear-splitting "pop! pop!" of the shotgun. A half hour later the hall resounded, "Frede Ansuup is here, and he says to hurry up!"

Again the tramping back and forth! Again the duck call!

again the stairs resounded as a troop of cavalry crossing a wooden bridge. Then presently the Gating gun exhaust of Ansuup's boat reverberating among the custard apples.

The following short interval of peace is broken by a stentorian shout, "Claire Greer's ready! Let's go! Let's go!"

More stomps! More quacks! More clomping down the stairs! And then the receding staccato bark of Claire's engine as it rends the darkness!

Further hope of sleep is out of the question, and one can only turn and toss and hope soon to hear the welcome breakfast bell.

Some individuals of a critical temperament have been known to complain that accommodations at Meyer's Hotel were not at times conducive to rest, but it must be admitted that it was likely to be neither humdrum nor monotonous, and then too, one might meet such interesting people.

Engineers Give Approval For Operation Of Locks For Passage Of Mullet

The recommendations of the Jacksonville District, U. S. Army Corps of Engineers for operation of the St. Lucie Lock and dam on the Okeechobee Waterway to prevent fish kills during future migration periods have been approved by the Office of the Chief of Engineers in Washington.

The recommendations were the result of observations and an analysis of mullet movements through St. Lucie Lock and dam from November 1956 to March 1957.

Edwin W. Eden, Jr., Chief of the Planning and Reports Branch, said that daily observations of fish movement on 1 November, 1956, following a radio report from A. I. Broadfoot, Area Engineer at Clewiston, that the annual spawning migration of mullet from Lake Okeechobee to the ocean was occurring in considerable numbers.

Upon receiving this report the district issued the following instructions to its Clewiston office and lock tenders: Make twice daily observations, a.m. and p.m. of the approximate numbers of fish above and moving through the lock. Following an initial change in weather conditions, such as quick drops in temperature, wind direction moving to the west and northwest or periods of heavy rainfall, make additional observations to determine if large numbers of fish are concentrating above the dam.

When fish concentrate above the dam, lockage will be made to pass them downstream. Large numbers of fish passing the dam will result in a gasping at the surface, not merely jumping, will be considered as evidence of a need for lockage. When fish concentrate above the dam as needed lock masters in addition to making lockages for boat traffic will make definite lockages at 8:00 a.m. and 5 p.m. If necessary additional lockages will be made at 10 a.m. and 10 p.m. Eden said that although the above instructions apply specifically to operations at St. Lucie Lock, however, if a migration develops in the Caloosahatchee River, the schedule of regulations for St. Lucie Lock will be applied at Moore Haven and Okeelanta locks.

JOB & WORKER

(Continued from page One) labor situations in the communities we serve. We must estimate in advance the demand for workers and we must have knowledge of the available local supply. We need also to know where workers can be found elsewhere if they are not available locally in sufficient numbers to meet local needs. What Mr. Larin stated is what we have been trying to do in the Glades area and we know that we can look Mr. Larin in the eye and say, "We have the cooperation of the growers and the workers in our area and are doing what must be done if we are to do our job honestly."

The Long Haul . . . Despite the weather over two thousand workers are pouring daily into the Glades on day haul from Port Pierce, Okeechobee, West Palm Beach, Pompano and Fort Myers. Housing in the Glades is filled to capacity and still we are running short of bean planters. There seems to be no answer to the problem of too many bean planters for the number of workers available. It is hoped that someone in our Glades will find the solution and when they do, please notify us immediately. In the meantime, every effort will be made to continue to attract workers to our area.

Minor Fires Attended By B. G. Fire Dept.

Three fires this week caused minor damage according to L. E. Will, Belle Glade Fire Chief. A kerosene stove explosion, automobile and grass fire were all handled easily, Will said.

The kerosene stove exploded at 608 W. Ave. A last Monday in an apartment occupied by Ella Mae Sanders. Damage was estimated at $25 in the room. The building is owned by Henry Blum.

A welding torch burned through a gas tank and started a fire April 27 in a car owned by Bobby Cartwright as he worked on it at Southern Equipment Co., 1424 NW 18th St. Damage was estimated at $100.

The grass fire April 27 on a lot adjacent to St. Ann's Drive was put out before it could spread and cause damage.

Port Committee Will Meet Monday Evening

The port committee of the Belle Glade Chamber of Commerce will meet Monday night at the chamber office to discuss plans for a building at the city's port site.

The group will also discuss leveling that parcel of land lying between the boat basin and the rim canal. The committee plans to landscape the area and plant grass there.

Negro Mother Awaits Abandonment Hearing

The 15 year old negro mother who abandoned her baby in a rooming house on SW 5th Street last week has been sent to Palm Beach County's Children's Home for Colored at Riviera Beach to await trial before Judge Richard P. Robin according to Glades County Agent Gene Duncan.

The baby who was found unattended in the room was treated and released at Belle Glade Memorial Hospital and placed in a foster home here, Duncan said.

The mother's age prevents the release of other information on the case.

Negro Wife Killer Is Given 20 Year Sentence

James T. Smith, Belle Glade negro, was sentenced to 20 years at Rarford State Penitentiary, this week after he pleaded guilty to second degree murder in connection with the death of his common-law wife, Hattie Mae Smith.

Circuit Court Judge Joseph S. White passed sentence in the trial after withdrawing a not guilty plea to first degree murder.

der. State Attorney Phil O'Connell agreed to accept the lesser charge.

Smith allegedly stabbed his wife to death February 17, 1957 with a butcher knife during an argument on SW 6th Street here.

The minimum sentence given by Judge White was in answer to a clemency plea by the defendant.

PCD Operates On Taxes From Three Sources Says Board Chairman J. A. Cox

Funds to carry out the Central and Southern Florida Flood Control Project come from three sources, according to J. Abney Cox, chairman of the PCD board.

Stating that, "Income is derived from an annual federal fund for engineering and construction, an appropriation, every two years from the State, and an ad valorem tax from the project," the chairman pointed out the sources of revenue to carry on the project.

It was also explained that funds from these three sources are earmarked for particular purposes. For example, Federal funds pay for engineering and design under the Corps of Engineers, U. S. Army. They also pay for 85% of the construction of project works and provide funds for other purposes.

State funds, on the other hand, pay for storage area lands, relocations and the matching 15% cash contribution required for construction costs.

Local funds derived from a uniform annual ad valorem tax levied on all real and personal property within the 17 counties in FCD subject to taxation for county purposes pay for other District purposes such as land acquisition and maintenance, repair and operation of FCD works. This year the 1 mill levy on property subject to taxation was reduced by 25% due to careful management by the PCD board.

To date the federal government has appropriated a little more than $38 million to the project. The state of Florida has released slightly over $11 million and local interests in the 17 counties of FCD have contributed $11,386,901, for the furtherance of the flood control and water conservation project.

H. S. Track Team Wins Third Place

Belle Glade High School trackmen came home from the April 27 Suncoast Conference meet with third place honors tucked under their belts and a healthy outlook for next year.

The local trackmen rolled up 37 1/2 points and broke the 880 yard relay record by 2 of a second and came away with several second and third places. Port Pierce won the meet while Stuart was second.

The accomplishments stand out event more since this is only the second year that the high school has had a track team, Coach Hector Ouellette said.

The relay team of Jeff Thomas, Leind Tatum, John Chamblee and Leon Burkett ran the 880 in 1:37.4 to break a four year mark.

Leon Burkett placed second in the 220 yard sprint and third in the 100 yard dash. Tommy Dunlap was second in the mile run with the time of 4:53.5. A Fort Pierce runner went the mile in 4:52 to win.

The thirteen men who entered practically every event Saturday had beaten only Pahokee previously 74-5. Burkett, Earl Armstrong and Broman Campbell are the only graduating seniors on the squad here therefore, prospects for next year look good, Ouellette stated.

The Junior High track team had a good year as they won at Pompano April 8 74-26 and Wayne Gamble turned in a startling performance winning the 100 yard dash, low hurdles and 220 yard dash. He is expected to be a standout next year.
